THIS VEHICLE MAY BE AFFECTED BY 2 RECALL

Result returned on: 5 Dec 2019, 5:47 p.m.

CHECK WITH MANUFACTURER

Status:	Check with manufacturer
Recall Code:	SI0331, SI0394, SI0435
PRA Number:	2016/15766
Commencement Date:	29 Nov 2016

Summary

Airbag inflator: As it gets older, a combination of high temperatures and humidity can cause the airbag inflator propellant to degrade. If an affected vehicle is involved in a collision triggering the airbag, the metal inflator housing may explode/rupture under too much internal pressure.

Risk

In the event that a defective airbag inflator ruptures, metal fragments may propel out through the airbag cushion towards the vehicle occupants causing serious injury or fatality.

Remedy

Owners of affected vehicles should contact their local Subaru dealership or Subaru head office directly via the website at <https://www.subaru.com.au/contact-us> to arrange for a replacement airbag inflator free of charge.

Consumers who are unsure whether they are affected can also use Subaru's VIN look-up tool at <https://www.subaru.com.au/recall> or contact Subaru on 1300 550 994 or contact their preferred dealer.

Alternatively, consumers can use their registration plate number to check if their vehicle is affected by going to <http://www.ismyairbagsafe.com.au>

We also recommend you visit <https://www.productsafety.gov.au/newsletter/subscribe> to subscribe to receive updates about current and future recalls as they are published.

Further information for consumers is available at: <https://www.productsafety.gov.au/recalls/compulsory-takata-airbag-recall>

For more information, please visit manufacturer's website (<https://www.subaru.com.au/takata-recall>) or talk to your local Subaru dealer about product recalls.

CHECK WITH MANUFACTURER

Status:	Check with manufacturer
Recall Code:	SI0329
PRA Number:	2016/15674
Commencement Date:	13 October 2016

Summary

Certain affected vehicles may contain a potentially faulty secondary air pump relay.

Risk

If the relay is faulty, the secondary air pump is powered continuously and may overheat, posing a fire risk.

Remedy

Known owners will be contacted by mail as soon as parts become available (end of October 2016) to present their vehicle to their preferred Subaru Retailer for replacement of the relay at no cost.

For more information, please visit manufacturer's website (<https://www.subaru.com.au/takata-recall>) or talk to your local Subaru dealer about product recalls.
